SEE Learning: The Dalai's Lama's Gift to Humanity

His Holiness the Dalai Lama unveils the Social Emotional Ethical Learning curriculum with Delhi Deputy Chief Minister Manish Sisodia and Nobel Peace Laureate Kailash Satyarthi at its global launch in New Delhi, India on April 5, 2019.

Tibet.net, April 5, New Delhi: The Dalai Lama is among the first thinkers of the 20th century to recognise that the gravest challenge facing humanity was not nuclear weapon or world war but the silent erosion of the core human values that could over time trigger a global emotional crisis. We are already witnessing its flagrant manifestations in political and social spectrums. Envisioning a human society with genuine sense of concern for each other and collective responsibility for global welfare, His Holiness the Dalai Lama proposed an educational transformation grounded in the perspective that the 7 billion human beings are completely equal in wanting to be happy, not wanting to suffer and together in cooperation, we stand to gain for ourselves and our community. Towards this effort, His Holiness minted the idea of universal secular ethics; enshrining the values of compassion, human dignity, empathy, warmheartedness, genuine sense of concern for others in our vision of prosperity and progress.

Through the years, as His Holiness officiated the introduction of Secular Ethics Curriculum in scores of universities and schools in India, North America and Europe, he noted that fostering love and compassion with human intellect held the key to human flourishing. In his latest and most distinguished contribution to the world, His Holiness the Dalai Lama with the Center for Contemplative Science and Compassion-Based Ethics at Emory University developed a comprehensive framework for the cultivation of social, emotional and ethical competencies for children in Kindergarten to students in secondary education as well as higher education and professional education: The SEE Learning. A long cherished dream of His Holiness the Dalai Lama, the innovative program is based on the universal secular ethics and is driven by his vision for a compassionate and ethical world for all. In his keynote address at the international launch of the SEE Learning program this Friday in the presence of over 900 educational and policy leaders from around the world, His Holiness remarked that the results of the curriculum would not be seen in immediate future, but the next generations will surely see more compassionate human beings, happier individuals and families. Experts and key speakers from Deputy Chief Minister of Delhi and Minister of Education Manish Sisodia, Nobel Peace laureate Kailash Satyarthi, Dr Lobsang Tenzin, Emory University to others including Veer Singh of Vana foundation and Tempa Tsering of the Dalai Lama Trust chimed in admiration as they celebrated the Dalai Lama's enlightened approach to education and his practical vision for the future of humanity. In line with His Holiness' long-echoed message, the SEE Learning is grounded in the idea that education can and should be expanded to foster the values and competencies that lead to greater happiness for both individuals and society at large. Through the program, future generations can move forward in realizing their tremendous potential for being a force for good: their own good, the good of others, and the good of the wider world. "The intention is for compassionbased ethics to be incorporated into existing curricula, where it will permeate and enhance each school's pedagogy," said Dr Lobsang Tenzin Negi, executive director of the new center and professor of practice in the Emory Department of Religion. The SEE Learning framework is organized into three dimensions which broadly encompass the types of knowledge and competencies it seeks to foster in students: (1) Awareness, Compassion, (2)and (3)Engagement. Furthermore, these three dimensions can be approached in three domains: that of (1) the Personal; (2) the Social; and (3) Systems all of which should take place within an educational context that is based on compassion and with teachers who strive to embody this underlying value. More than 600 educators in various countries have SEE attended Learning workshops. Α high school curriculum is planned for 2020. An online platform is available for educator preparation, and the curriculum is currently being translated into fourteen languages including Hindi, English, French, Russian, German and Chinese. The global launch of the SEE Learning in Delhi was hosted by Emory University, in partnership with The Dalai Lama Trust and the Vana Foundation of India.

US Congress Will 'Never' Recognize Chinese-appointed Dalai Lama

Senator Cory Gardner at the hearing of the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on East Asia, the Pacific and International Cybersecurity Policy, 9 April 2019.

Tibet.net, April 10, Dharamshala: Debunking China's latest claims over the reincarnation of Tibet's foremost spiritual leader His Holiness the Dalai Lama, the United States Congress affirmed upon the sole, legitimate and indisputable authority of His Holiness the Dalai Lama to determine his succession and said the US would only follow the instructions laid out by the Dalai Lama with regard to his reincarnation. "Let me be very clear: The United States Congress will never recognize a Dalai Lama that is selected by the Chinese," Senator Cory Gardner addressed a hearing of the US Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on East Asia, the Pacific, and International Cybersecurity Policy. The subcommittee is a key Congressional body that oversees US policy in Asia. Sen Gardner is the subcommittee chairman. In a further snub to Chinese spurious claims, the US Congress declared that it will only follow the instructions laid out by His Holiness the Dalai Lama in regard to the future of his reincarnation. "His Holiness The Dalai Lama laid out [his] succession. Only then will the US follow that succession." Bhuchung K. Tsering, vice president of International Campaign for Tibet (ICT) who testified at the hearing on the situation in Tibet and its impact on the Indo-Pacific region said China's plans to control the Dalai Lama's reincarnation will not be accepted by Tibetan Buddhists inside or outside Tibet. In 2011, His Holiness the 14th Dalai Lama issued an edict on the future of his reincarnation as well as the history of the tulku tradition in Tibetan Buddhism. In the statement, His Holiness said, "in the absence of clear guidelines, should the concerned public express a strong wish for the Dalai Lamas to continue, there is an obvious risk of vested political interests misusing the reincarnation system to fulfil their own political agenda. Therefore, while I remain physically and mentally fit, it seems important to me that we draw up clear guidelines to recognise the next Dalai Lama, so that there is no room for doubt or deception." "If it is decided that the reincarnation of the Dalai Lama should continue and there is a need for the Fifteenth Dalai Lama to be recognized, responsibility for doing so will primarily rest on the concerned officers of the Dalai Lama's Gaden Phodrang Trust."

The Dalai Lama, who fled Tibet in 1959, has been staying in McLeodganj in exile since. Before retiring from active political life, the Dalai Lama sought independence for Tibet and its meaningful autonomy under the sovereignty of China. In 2011, he retired from active political life and handed over the reins of the Tibetan government-in-exile to the elected leadership. Since then, he has been desisting from making any political statement even on the Tibet issue.

Where is the 11th Panchen Lama? BBC Broadcasts a forensic impression of what the 11th Panchen Lama may look like today

Tibet.net, April 24: The International Tibet Network's Political Prisoners Campaign Working group commissioned a specialist forensic artist Tim Widden to create an image showing what the 11th Panchen Lama of Tibet may look like today as 25th April 2019 marks the 30th birth anniversary of the 11th Panchen Lama Gendhun Choekyi Nyima. His Holiness the 11th Panchen Lama along with his family was forcibly taken into custody by the Chinese government after he was recognised as the incarnation of the previous Panchen Lama at the age of 6 by His Holiness the 14th Dalai Lama. Tibetans refer His Holiness the Dalai Lama and Panchen Lama of Tibet as the sun and moon of Tibet. Panchen Lama is considered and revered as the second highest religious figure in Tibetan Buddhism after His Holiness the Dalai Lama and the fact that he plays an essential role in the recognition and education of Dalai Lamas, and viceversa apparently makes his disappearance politically crucial for the Chinese Government which goes on to show anti-religion communist government efforts to use religion to serve its political ends. Since the arbitrary arrest of Panchen Lama in 1995, the Chinese authorities also arrested, detained and sentenced a number of Tibetans who were involved in the search of Panchen Lama. Despite numerous calls from the international community to release him and his family, the Chinese government turns a deaf ear. The Chinese government has admitted him taken away, but no one has been allowed to verify his existence. "He is attending school and leading a normal life like any other ordinary children" is the only response that had been airing by China in response to whereabouts of the 11th Panchen Lama. The Chinese government didn't just end in taking away the 11th Panchen Lama but they managed to install another six-yearold Tibetan boy as the 11th Panchen Lama. Today, there are two Panchen Lamas, one recognised by His Holiness the Dalai Lama and respected by all Tibetans and another six-year-old picked and installed by the Chinese government, known as Panchen "Zuma" Fake Panchen. Given Chinese statement of Gendun Choekvi Nyima, the 11th Panchen Lama, leading a "normal life as an ordinary Child", there are some pressing questions that the Chinese authority must address to the international community. Firstly, what makes China keep on declining the request of the international community, including UN human rights mandate holders, to see Gendun Choekyi Nyima? Secondly, If Gendun Choekyi Nyima is leading a normal life as China claims, why has he been not seen in a public place? The forcible disappearance of Gendun Choekyi Nyima has violated not only the rights of Gendun Choekyi Nyima but also violated the collective rights of all Tibetans.
