Khrimy, National Convener, Core Group for Tibetan Cause - India in his condolence message has written "Late Prof. Morey had contributed at large for the Tibetan cause especially in Amravati region of Maharashtra and played a pivotal role in the Tibetan freedom movement for long time. His untimely demise is a huge loss for all of us. The Core Group of Tibetan Cause - India remains highly indebted for his altruistic service to the Tibetan cause and humanity. We offered our sincere and deep condolences to his family members in this time of grief. Our prayers and thoughts are with them. We pay our respectful homage and tribute to the departed soul and pray for his swift rebirth. He will be always remembered as one of the torch bearers of Tibbat Mukti Sadhana."

Bharat Tibbat Samvad Manch held Inaugural Program of its Central Core Group Meeting

Dignitaries on dias. L-R Mr. Tenzin Jorden, Shri Hari Prasad, Dr. Sanjay Shukla, Dr. Chandra Trikha, Shri Satyanarayana & Shri Narinder Jagga

ITCO, March 6, Delhi: Amid the pandemic, Tibet Support Groups in India are still actively organizing activities and programs to strengthen the Tibetan movement. Bharat Tibbat Samvad Manch, one of the Tibet Support Groups as such held the inaugural program of its Two-Day Central Core Group Meeting being held at Hotel Flemingo, Zirakpur (Punjab) near Chandigarh on Saturday, 6th March 2021. Dr. Sanjay Shukla, National Convener, Bharat Tibbat Samvad Manch in his inaugural address welcomed all the dignitaries and office bearers from different parts of India. He spoke on the importance of India and Tibet relations. He said that the culture of India and Tibet is so much similar and the air of spiritualism comes to India from Tibet. He demanded that the history and culture of Tibet should be included in the school curriculum of India. He warned the members on the danger of China to India if the dragon is not control. Dr. Shukla appreciated the United States Government for the Tibet Support and Policy Act 2020, and demanded such clear policy on Tibet from the Government of India. He stressed on to carry the

Tibetan Movement at national and international forum. He stated that the issue of freedom of Tibet is directly related with the development and security of India. He said that a memorandum will be given to the Governor of States through its 20 State Units in which it will be demanded to recognize Tibet as a Sovereign country and to confer Bharat Ratna on His Holiness the 14th Dalai Lama. India Tibet Coordination Office (ITCO) Deputy Coordinator Mr. Tenzin Jorden was the Special Guest during the program. In his address, he said that India and Tibet have shared a unique spiritual, cultural and historical relationship and lived in peace in harmony for many centuries. After the Chinese invasion and occupation of Tibet, whereby launching a full scale attack to destroy Tibetan cultural and religious identity, India on the other hand had generously supported Tibetans and rebuilt our new home in exile, the country which is the source of our knowledge and our faith. He further said that during the pandemic, the Tibet Support Groups have launched strike hard campaign against China by boycotting Chinese products, protesting at Chinese Consulates and online campaigns to disclose the evil acts of Communist China. “I take this opportunity to express our gratitude and sincere thanks to India’s steadfast support and especially to the Samvad Manch Organisation for your commitment to the just cause of Tibet. Finally, I wish every success for your future strategies and deliberation shall be of immense useful to ‘Tibbat Mukti Sadhana’” he concluded. In his address as the Chief Guest, Dr. Chandra Trikha, Director of Haryana Sahitya Academy and also Vice Chairman of Haryana Urdu Academy shared that it is very much important for Indian people to understand Tibet. He said before understanding the case of Tibet, it would be necessary to understand the history and culture of Tibet. He said that the land of Tibet is a land of mystery and spirituality. He said as more and more we develop the curiosity to know Tibet, we will know the depth of its significance to India. Dr. Trikha further said that the cultural books of Tibet are being disregarded even in India. India has been giving shelter and supporting the Tibetan people for decades, but not recognizing Tibet as a separate country. He said that the story of China’s tyranny and cheating policy is not new and boycott of Chinese goods is a practical necessity whereas the purchase of Chinese goods means strengthening China and weakening India. He described Tibet as culturally and spiritually sounds, and humbly requested all to must study Tibet for the greater cause. On the occasion, the forum felicitated the dignitaries and felicitated specially Tibetan peace marcher duo Tenzin Dhondup and Tenzin Nyima who had began a peace march titled “March for Freedom” from Dharamshala in Himachal Pradesh to Nathula in Sikkim covering a distance of 2000 km appox in 94 days seeking urgent attention to the deteriorating environmental situation in Tibet, the world must accept Tibet as an occupied country and boycotting products made in China.

Sino-India Relations being discussed by Public Policy Group, IIM Udaipur

Webinar on Sino-India Relations organized by IIM Udaipur in process

ITCO, March 28, New Delhi: Public Policy Group of Indian Institute of Management, Udaipur – one of the youngest B-school institutions founded in 2018, with management studies, accredited with ACCB accreditation – organized an online discussion upon Sino-Indian Relations. The event was intended to explore and study upon public policy matters that are indispensable to understand the Sino-Indian relations. Two guest speakers including Shri. Rahul Kashyap and Sh. Jigmey Tsultrim along with special invitee from faculty member Dr. Saurab Gupta addressed the platform. The program was presented by Mr. Rishav whereas the guest profile was introduced by Ms. Karanpreet both representing the student faculty of Public Policy Group. Sh. Rahul Kashyap, in his opening remarks, emphasized the key elements of business studies along with the thorough study of public policy matters. He hinted out that Sino-India relation has remained one of the scary subject of studies in the realm of International Relations yet students and professionals must deal this matter from every aspect. He revisited those series of events that took place in Sino-India relations in the last couple of decades and particularly in 2020 with an effort to underline the misinterpretation of Chinese Communist Government control over the border that stretched from Ladakh (presently Union Territory) to Arunachal Pradesh. ITCO Coordinator began his address with four of its points; trade and commerce relations between China and India, cultural relations, geographical relations and finally political and social relations. He shared those statistics of 2018 and 2019 which are available on website of Ministry of External Affairs, Government of India that reflects the widening gap of export/import transactions and investments between these two nations and the loss Indian Government has been facing in the recent years. He draw out the cultural relations and its proximities between China and India and then with Tibet. He outlined that Chinese scholars visited India, studied Buddhist philosophy, returned and initiated their own trait of learning. Whereas Tibetan masters and scholars visited India, studied but also succeeded in inviting Indian masters from Nalanda and Takshila – then Oxford of Indian institutions and learning centers. He presented the case of Chinese Buddhist practitioners which constitutes more than 240 million of its population out of which more than 30% follow His Holiness the Dalai Lama's teaching taking risk at their own. He requested the students to enhance further study in these cases as it will then elaborate the horizons of academic wisdom. Touching upon the geographical relations, the coordinator drew out historical and geographical relations between India/China and that with Tibet. He reminded the participants to relook at previous CBSEs social science book at primary grade that imparts a topic on India and its neighbor which presently has been replaced due to some unconventional reasons.

Linking with this subject he emphasized upon the greater risk of natural calamities that may be uncertain in coming years due to environmental destructions inside Tibet and untamed damming upon giant rivers of Brahmaputra and other major rivers that originates from Tibet. Thousands of small and medium glaciers that has represented the water towers of Asia are now many of them has melted and formed in lakes which can outburst in any moment are direct results of Chinese Communist Government's extensive exploitations of nature and its resources. With this, the Coordinator linked the political and social relation between India and China. One that is democratic and other that is totalitarian and communist. One that has seen different legacies of Governments and other that has seen only the power of grip upon public more tightly and restricted. He reminded the incidents that have been taking place in concerns with Communist Chinese Government's hardline and expansionist policy in relation the forceful imposition of new security laws upon Hongkong, interventions in constitutional rights of Republic of China, Taiwan, re-emergence of human rights activist from Tiananmen Square crackdown has brought down the face value of CCP. Towards his conclusion, he stressed that ITCO therefore works in updating these happenings and disseminate information amongst Indian masses in the hope that Tibet's approach of its justice can be measured with its honesty and truth. He thanked Dr. Saurab Gupta, Senior Faculty Member, for having him invited at the virtual platform and appreciated the participants for their patience and constructive questions during the session.
